Civil Service League Honors 10 As Outstanding Aides of U. S.

Nonpartisan Group Makes Its 1960 Awards—Astin of Standards Unit Cited

The National Civil Service League announced yesterday its selection of the ten outstanding Federal Government workers for 1960. The awards were shared by career officials, nine men and one woman, working in various fields of government. The league, founded in 1881, is a nonpartisan civic organization that seeks to promote public understanding of the civil service and improve personnel management in government. League awards have been given annually since 1955 to civil servants for competence, character and achievement.

This year's winners were selected by the board of directors of the league from nominations submitted by Federal departments and agencies. Among the three Government scientists cited was Dr. Allen V. Astin, director of the National Bureau of Standards.

The only woman in the group was Miss Ethel B. Dietrich, economic officer of the United States mission to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and European Regional Organization in Paris. Among the others were administrators, financial managers, an economist and an intelligence officer.

They are:

Judson D. DeRamus, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Edwin L. Kilby, Commis-
